Six Cents Reward.

RANAWAY from the subscriber, on the 16th day of September last, an indented apprentice to the carpenter business, named JAMES MURRAY, between 18 and 19 years of age, about 5 feet 6 or 7 inches high, fair complexion and light hair, has a small defect on one of his legs, which may be perceived when he walks. The above lad is remarkably attached to whiskey and laughter, and will never tell the truth when a lie will answer the same purpose. Cursing and swearing appear to be his mother tongue, as he excels most lads of his age in those polite acquirements.

Whoever delivers said runaway to the subscriber, or secures him in Pittsburgh jail, shall receive the above reward in paper money, but must not expect thanks, as no favor will be conferred on his master. RICHARD GEARY.

FOR SALE.

That very [illegible] place called
HAMILTON HILL.

THE subscriber, wishing to remove from the country to a town, offers for sale, his beautiful FARM on which he now resides, seven miles from the city of Pittsburgh, on the south west bank of the Monongahela river, and two miles from M'Keesport on the confluence of the Youghiogheny and Monongahela rivers, and nearly opposite the mouth of Turtle creek.

This tract consists of about 275 acres of choice land, on which there is nearly 140 acres of first rate river and run bottom—the remainder is excellent tillable upland—there is about 90 acres of river bottom land cleared, which will produce as good corn and grass crops as any in the western country. In point of beauty, as well as excellent quality, this farm is excelled by none. The dwelling house is spacious, 72 feet in length, and one and a half story high, very neat and handsomely finished; a large barn with stables underneath, besides a horse stable, and other out houses, two tenant houses, and an excellent new Saw-mill, with a fall of 22 feet, and a stream of water sufficient for the purpose, for nearly nine months in the year. The same seat will admit of a grist or other mills also. There are several excellent springs for distilling; a handsome garden, stocked with all kinds of shrubbery; a young thriving Orchard of the best fruit, and more than 3000 sugar trees on said farm.

If desired, there will be sold with the estate 100 full blooded, three fourths, and half blooded MERINO SHEEP, of superior quality and beauty besides horses, cows, &c and all kinds of farming utensils. The proximity to Pittsburgh and its excellent market, which unquestionably is the best in the Union, and the convenience as well by land as by water, makes it one of the most desirable and valuable estates in the western country not only the bottoms but a considerable part of the upland, is excellently calculated for meadow. A full description is deemed unnecessary, as it is presumed the property will not be purchased without viewing it; however, it is calculated the estate will clear from 2500 to $3000 per annum, if well attended to. It is clear of all incumbrance, and an undisputable title will be given.

Besides the above, the subscriber will sell three excellent tracts of BOTTOM LAND, situate about five miles from Harmony, and nine miles from Beaver, 25 miles from Pittsburgh, on the Conequenessing. This land is of the very best quality for meadow or corn; each tract has an improvement upon it; one a saw mill; and another, a good dwelling house, barn, &c.

From Poulson's Gazette.

In the Journal des Debats of Oct. 20th, we find the proceedings of a Court Martial convened to try Marshal Grouchy par contumace; after the evidence for the Crown had been gone through with, the son of the Marshal in his uniform of Colonel of Chasseurs, decorated with the cross of St. Louis, and that of the Legion of Honour, addressed the Court, on behalf of his father; after stating the peculiar nature of his situation, he proceeded to contest the jurisdiction of the Court, contending that his father as Inspector General was amenable only to the Chamber of Peers. He then traced briefly the military career of his father, from his entrance into the army to the moment when after the disaster of Waterloo, he by a masterly retreat conducted his corps of 40,000 men unbroken to the walls of Paris, and dwelt upon the uniform kindness he had shown to the emigraints, and upon his unceasing efforts to obtain the erasure of their names from the fatal list. After hearing the defence and the different Ordinances of Napoleon and Louis, the Court unanimously determined that they had no jurisdiction, and was therefore incompetent to try Marshal Grouchy.

A paper of the 18th Oct. contains the following paragraph, on the subject of the famous Holy Alliance, which if correct, proves that it is at all events, a harmless measure, and may possibly be productive of much good. "We have already announced that the Swiss Cantons, previous to acceding to the Holy Alliance, had requested of the Russian Ambassador, M. de Krudner, an explanation of the objects of this treaty, and of the acts by which the different Governments of Europe had signified their accession to it. M. de Krudner has in consequence of this, communicated a mass of Documents to the Diet, who have laid them before the respective governments of the Cantons. These pieces are beginning to appear in the German and Swiss papers. It appears from the communications of M. de Krudner, that the only object of the Holy Alliance, is to maintain throughout, a tranquil and legitimate posture of affairs, to guarantee the social institutions, the rights and liberties of each order of state, and the constitutional principles of each European government, whether it be Republican or Monarchical The Prince Regent of England, could not accede formally to this Alliance, because the constitution of England, requires, that all Treaties shall be signed by a respect table Minister: whereas the Holy Alliance, has been concluded directly by the Sovereigns; but he has written a letter to the Allied Monarchs, expressing his cordial concurrence in the principles of the Treaty."

FROM LATE LONDON PAPERS.

EXTINCTION OF FIRE, &c.

London, Sept. 7.

Yesterday week at Woolwich Barracks, in the presence of a committee appointed by the Boards of Ordnance and Admiralty, captain Manby stated, that he had no idea of pecuniary gain; he should take no patent for what he had done, and wished it to be known, that he disavowed all claim to invention. The committee then inspected the portable machine; the capt. shewed that it could be instantly applied, (as it might be kept ready loaded) to a fire which was so situated that a common fire engine would be of no service, for instance, he said, in the back apartments of a house, or under the deck of a vessel. He explained the nature of the fluid which the machine was charged with, which consists of lime, potash and a certain quantity of water, which might be made in two minutes, and on board a ship a cask of it might always be in readiness, besides the machine being charged with it.

To show to the committee the extraordinary effects of the anti-phlogistic fluid, he immersed in it a quantity of hemp, canvass and deal wood, which are the most combustible materials used in a dock yard; he also immersed the same materials in common water, and applied a certain heat to each; those which had been dipped in the anti-phlogistic fluid would not burn, and those dipped in common water blazed immediately.

The captain then exhibited the means he had of rescuing persons from danger, where they were so situated, being surrounded by fire, that the only means of escaping from the element was through the windows or from the tops of the houses. He showed several plans embracing every situation in which a person might be placed in such a time. All the apparatus, with 15 of the portable machines, cylinders, might be by this plan, fixed upon a light cart, and two men, or one horse, could draw them with ease. One of the inventions was much admired by the committee, which the captain tried, by shooting a cord from a pistol, one end of which would go over a house, and the person in distress could draw the rope to the window; at the other end was fastened a glazier's horse such as they clean the outside of windows with, which are at a distance from the ground. Persons may draw it up, and fasten themselves to the noose by a sliding noose round the waist, and the rope being fastened to a pulley, the persons below may assist those in distress gradually down, without danger.

The Captain produced a plan of communication from a house on fire to the next house, by a kind of railing, with hooks to clip each window frame—and also an elastic sheet, which being held by two men, the person in distress might leap into it without any danger of receiving hurt by it. The fifteen loaded machines would be sufficient to extinguish any fire from its immediate application, and the contents of them would be equal to three tons of water and he humbly hoped and believed that the day was not far distant when every parish in the metropolis would be furnished with one of the carriages complete.

Latest from the Spanish Maine.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER.

St. Barts, Nov. 11, 1816.—"The governor of this Island has issued his Proclamation, dated 6th inst. rigidly prohibiting all vessels from Guadaloupe and Antigua entering the port, owing to the prevalence of the Yellow Fever in those Islands. Several cases have occurred here, introduced by vessels from the said places.

"Accounts were received a few days since via St. Thomas, stating that a severe engagement was fought on the 28th Oct. on the plains of Barcelona, 6 miles distant from the town, between the Royal and Patriot armies. Sir Gregor M'Gregor, commanded on the part of the Patriots, and General Morales for the Royalists. The forces were about equal, 7000 strong; M'Gregor succeeded in taking 2,500 prisoners, and killing 3 to 900, together with possession of the town.—General Morales had escaped into the mountains, and left behind him his horse, baggage, &c.—The Patriots were in possession of several other parts of the Maine. Their fleet was said to be st Margaretta.—The Patriot privateers are cruizing in great numbers between St. Thomas and Porto Rico; several American and English vessels have been boarded by them, and treated with the greatest politeness. They have recently captured several Spanish vessels with valuable cargoes."—F. Jour.

CONFIRMATION.

By the brig Virginia, Rueburn, which arrived at Baltimore on Tuesday last, in 16 days from Barbadoes, we learn, that a vessel had arrived there on the 6th from Laguira, the captain of which had brought verbal intelligence that the celebrated patriotic General Sir Gregor M'Gregor, had taken possession of Cumana, and was proceeding against Caraccas with a sufficient force, it was believed, to take possession of that place.—*Bal. CHAPTER XIV.

Missing the mark by overshooting it.

THE celebrated Dean Swift, (I quote from memory only, not having by me the record)—the celebrated Dean Swift had been so highly pleased with the conversation and deportment of a farmer's wife near Dublin, that he invited himself to dine at her house, and sent her notice of the time. The trial was rather too hard for her prudence. Elated with the idea of entertaining a guest whose company was courted by the first nobility of the realm, she dressed herself out as fine as her fingers could make her, and, in this attire, received the Dean with stately ceremony. He, in his turn made his profound obeisance, and then instantly enquired for the farmer's wife.—"I am she; pray, sir, don't you know me?", "You! no, Madam, I wont be tricked; the farmer's wife that I am come to see is a plain woman, but you look like a Duchess."

Her excellent sense made her understand the hint, and her excellent humour made her take it in good part. She withdrew, changed her dress, and returned in a plain robe.—"Ah, tis she," joyfully exclaimed the Dean; "this is the very woman, the farmer's wife that I come to see, and I expect to be quite happy in your company."

No reflection is meant by introducing this anecdote here. Assuredly, no insinuation is intended, that females of the middle rank, whether belonging to the families of farmers, mechanics, traders, or of whatever reputable occupation else, are less worthy of esteem than the splendid daughters of wealth and fortune, so far otherwise, I do verily believe that in the living world there are not to be found a more estimable body of females, than in families of but middling circumstances.—As wives, as mothers, as daughters, as sisters, no female characters have done more virtuously. Alike removed from the seductive influence of luxurious wealth, and piddling poverty, not a few of them are patterns of domestic excelence.

And what is it that has made a great many of them so estimable, and of price above rubies. It is their sober virtuous habits—their modesty—their piety—their industry—their prudent economy—their faithful discharge of domestic duties—their assiduous and wisely-directed efforts, "to make well ordered home man's best delight."—This is their honourable distinction, the gem that sheds lustre over their persons.

But when, infected with the modern heresy, they are led to believe that a close attention to house hold-duties is degrading to character; that their frugal, saving, industrious grand mothers were poor spirited creatures; and that costly attire and furniture, tilting often abroad, and receiving company at home in a style of high fashion, are what will give them honourable distinction:—when under the influence of this fatal error, they scornfully neglect domestic occupations, run into the expensive fashions of wealth and high life, and by these means impoverish parents, husbands, and their own offspring—it is then that they lose all claim to that esteem, which a different course of conduct would have fairly entitled them to.

Blind infatuation! Their object is honourable distinction; but instead of attaining which, they provoke the laughter and mockery of all about them.

Albany, Nov. 19.

Boundary Line.—Col. Colevie, the commissioner appointed on the part of the British government to establish the boundary line from the 15th parallel of latitude on the St. Lawrence, to the Lake of the Woods, arrived in this city on Saturday last. Gen. Porter, the American Commissioner, had arrived several days before. The city of Albany being the place designated by the treaty of Ghent for the first meeting of the Commissioners, we understand that it accordingly took place yesterday. From the lateness of the season, however, they will not be able to commence their operations this fall; but we are informed that they will probably organize the Board, and make the necessary arrangements for entry on their labours, as soon as the water shall open in the spring. The line to be run by this board embraces an extent of more than two thousand miles, through one of the most interesting countries on the globe, and its establishment will determine the rights of the respective governments to an immense number of very valuable Islands, which are now subjects of controversy. In addition to the political advantages resulting from this commission, we anticipate from the labours of the commissioners, and the gentleman who will accompany them, much useful and interesting information connected with the geology, mineralogy, and, generally, with the natural history of the Northwestern section of the United States.

From the New York Evening Post.

We give the following interesting extract of a letter just received from an old friend and correspondent, and a gentleman of the first respectability, who last year, quitted with some dissatisfaction the United States, where he had resided in a public and private capacity, nearly five and twenty years, to return and pass the remainder of his life in the land of his forefathers. But instead of the lively pleasures that he had anticipated at revisiting his native home, unwelcome feelings of disappointment and regret awaited him; it might almost be said, the place that once knew him, knew him no more. At length after a weary pilgrimage, finding naught but vanity and vexation of spirit, he has returned, with his little family to enjoy, with tranquility, their future days in the bosom of their adopted home.—In whatever spot they may fix their residence, it will be envied by all who formerly had the happiness of their acquaintance. The opinions of this gentlemen, on the present state of Europe, though only sketched in a letter not designed for the public, are entitled to great respect.

"On board the ship Harmony, Nov. 22, 1816.

"Last evening we entered the Chesapeake bay, after a passage of 40 days from the Texel, and we are now sailing towards Baltimore, with a contrary wind and a light breeze. We feel happy in finding ourselves again in America, and the more so after our late residence and travels in Europe. It is so far from being true that the internal tranquility of Europe is firmly established by the late peace of Paris, that a general feeling of apprehension prevails every where, that new changes or new wars are to take place within a few years. The French feel deeply the humiliating condition to which they are reduced, and nothing but the presence of the allied armies in France—on the northern frontiers, keeps them from new convulsions, or attempts at a revolution.

"Throughout Europe a general spirit of uneasiness and dissatisfaction prevails. The resources of every nation have been exhausted by the wars of the last 25 years, and it is not possible for any of the governments, at present, to alleviate the burdens formerly laid on the people, as they are all loaded with enormous debts, and are to keep themselves prepared for new wars. Even in the kingdom of the Netherlands, the conscription is in full force, and by it an army of 100,000 men is kept up. Troops are still quartered on the inhabitants; in a word, the French system remains necessarily in full force, while the taxes continue to bear as heavily on the impoverished nations as before. Add to this the fears and forebodings for the future, sharpened by the remembrance of past long sufferings, together with the various unpleasant and gloomy impressions upon every individual, occasioned by it, and you will be able to conceive that the nations of Europe feel themselves restless, dissatisfied and unhappy; not so much, however, for what they actually feel, as for what they fear, France still continues to be an object of detestation and apprehension, and the cause of the present unhappy state of the nations of Europe."

Steam Presses.—A French paper contains the following: "In England steam-presses continue to succeed, and several Journals employ them. They are of three sorts: the single press, which throws off from 500 to 1000 copies an hour; the double press, which in the same time throws off to the amount of 1,600 copies; and the perfect press, which makes register of itself, without the use of points mutilating the paper. The working of one of these presses, which dispatches as much work as 24 pressmen and 12 presses (an exaggeration) requires only the labor of a man and a boy, to place and take off the sheets.—Their first mover is the steam-engine, which cost about 120 Louis, but for which the burning of coals is indispensible. It would be useless to employ wood in it; and the former of these combustibles can only be replaced by water or horse power. These presses have not yet been introduced into Germany, but some public Journals propose to employ them."

An English paper states that a young man ascended the lofty steeple of St. Nicholas Church, Bristol, for the purpose of taking down the weather cock, to repair its defects. The simplicity of the scaffolding, which he made use of excited admiration. It consisted of two poles, carried out from two of the appertures, about midway up the steeple, by spiral ropes. The most perilous part of the performance was a leap which he was actually obliged to make, from the top of the ladder to catch hold of the iron cross. Had he failed!—But he succeeded, & seating himself astride, took off the cock, which he waved over his head in triumph two or three times, and then descended with his prize.

PRIVATEERING.

We are informed, upon undoubted authority, says the United States' Gazette, that there is at present prevailing, to a great and alarming extent, a practice of equipping and fitting out privateers in several of our ports for the known and avowed purpose of cruizing against the legitimate commerce of the Spanish nation with whom we are at peace. The vessels are notoriously owned, & navigated by Americans, and for their account. The outrage is of such a character as will sooner or later involve the people of these United States in serious difficulties and expenses: while none will be benefitted, except a few disorderly and desperate adventurers, whose habits and pursuits in life are such as to make them neither creditable nor advantageous to any community.

Choctaw Treaty.—The Commissioners appointed to treat with the Choctaw Indians, have returned to Nashville, having accomplished the object of their mission. By this treaty the Choctaws have relinquished to the United States, all their land lying east of the Tombigbee river; for which they are to receive the sum of $120,000, payable in twenty equal annual instalments.

Onion juice.—It was some time since stated in the papers that the juice of an onion possessed a quality which destroys the magnetic power when brought in contact; but on subsequent experiments it is found not to be so. A writer in the Albany Register says he has tried both the red & white onion, by rubbing the needle with the juice, and by immersing it in the filtered juice of both, and neither lost its attraction or polarity, and concludes with saying it "has no more effect on the magnetic needle than a blistering plaister would have upon a wooden leg.

"Foreign Influence."—The principal objections to the old Bank of the U. States, were, the unconstitutionality of the institution, and the foreign Influence in the bank. Both these scruples have been very easily overcome. The five Directors appointed by Mr. Madison, are all foreigners, as also the President of the bank. In addition to this, we perceive that a Director has been appointed to proceed to London, for the purpose of negociating the sum of Ten Millions specie, offered by merchants in that city.

Worthy of Remark.—The ship Beverly, belonging to the Hon. I. Thorndike, which arrived here on the 6th inst. from Canton, left this port on the 22d of July, 1815;—stopped 3 1-2 months in Valpariso, visited all the Sandwich Islands and the Marun Islands, in the Pacific Ocean; loaded at Canton, came the eastern passage through Dampiers Straits, stopped 8 days at the Cape of Good Hope; has averaged whilst absent 5 knots and 1-8; and has landed 735 tons of goods, consisting of 12,500 packages, not one in the least damaged.

And what is the most remarkable, during her voyage round the world, she has not lost a spar of the simplest size, nor had the most trifling accident happened; and the very sails which were bent before her sailing having been constantly worn during the passage. Boston Pal.

NO NEWS.

There has been of late a loud complaint against the newspapers that their pages have become cold, dead, and uninteresting. To the shame and scandal of the editors it must be confessed that Bonaparte has not broke loose from his cage at St. Helena. Europe is now enjoying a state of intolerable peace, and we have no rapes, robberies, murders or conflagrations on a large scale, to gratify a craving curiosity. What is to be done in this deplorable dilemma! How much it is to be lamented that Alexander will not set fire to St. Petersburg, or that Ferdinand would not voluntarily renounce a throne for a dungeon, for the benefit of those who have such insatiable appetites for novelty. But the season is not surely entirely destitute of interest. We have in all conscience enough house-breaking, robbery and counterfitting at home, to rouse the ennui of the reader. But it seems that these examples are not purely to the American taste; they come too near our own hearths and fire-sides; we cannot sit and peruse them with such a quiet satisfaction, as we can do, when the Atlantic intervenes. We begin to talk then, about giving energy to the laws, and lending our assistance to the officers of justice for the apprehension of such notorious offenders. Many who feel sore under the infliction of such evils, would be nothing to lament, if a whole continent was arrayed in arms, and murder, robbery and conflagration were perpetrated on a grand and magnificent scale. If we bring such examples nearer home, we shall see with what injustice we complain against the barren character of our newspapers. To say that we have no new intelligence to communicate in every arrival from Europe, is the best of all intelligence. It proves that the nations of Europe are busily employed in cultivating the arts of peace—that the laws are regaining their proper tone and energy—that the people are happy and contented, and repairing the ravages of war. It proves that Europe is purified from those turbulent and factious spirits who cannot exist in the calm sunshine of peace. All these it is true are unostentatious blessings—they are not promulgated to the world by the sound of a trumpet—the thunders of cannon—the trampling of steeds—the groans of dying, or by the shouts of conquering heroes. But while Europe presents to us a scene of such imposing tranquility, let us not be always so perfectly sure that when we wish for a change of scene, a merciful and protecting Atlantic will pour his billows between us and the theatre of such awful contentions as he has hitherto done.

We may be gratified with more than our wishes. The time may come when some longing European when he sits beside the smoke of his paternal chimney, may wait with anxiety for the journal whose pages will be polluted by American blood. A dark cloud already begins to lour on this western firmament. While privateers are fitted out of our own ports, supplied with all the munitions of war, which by changing their flags in the face of a solemn existing treaty, plunder the commerce of the subjects of his Catholic Majesty—while these vessels even extend their ravages, and capture vessels sailing under the flags of other independent powers, with whom the United States are likewise bound by the faith of existing treaties to peserve amicable relations, it requires no spirit of prophecy to foresee the issue of such flagrant enormities. It will be found that a change of flag, will be but a poor apology for such downright flagrant robbery, and violation of treaties. It may indeed be said in extenuation, that these privateers do not commit a greater outrage on other nations, than they do upon their own countrymen; that since their own countrymen do not complain of such depravity, other nations have no right to remonstrate. We shall endeavour shortly to call the attention of Congress to this plea of justification for robbery.

But to return to the question—it surely does not become us as men or as christians, constantly to be deploring the absence of those calamities which in ordinary parlance make the pages of a public paper interesting. Our curiosity is indeed satisfied at too dear a rate, if nothing but legalized murder, conflagration and robbery will answer. We have reason to be grateful to a beneficent God that he has spoken peace to the whirlwinds and stayed the sword of his exterminating angel. The husband and the wife, the father and the son, may now embrace in the hope that they may be allowed to die in the family mansion, and to be buried in the sepulchre of their ancestors. This is a privilege which Divine Providence has for a long season thought fit to deny to a great portion of our fellow men—they have been sung to the sleep of death by the notes of the raven, the snow has been their winding-sheet, and the howl of the northern blast has been their funeral dirge. Sure novelties of this kind are purchased at a rate infinitely too dear.

Fed. Rep.

The Philadelphia papers state, that John Sergeant, Esq. one of the Directors of the Bank of the United States, has been appointed by the Board of Directors, to proceed to London, for the purpose of negociating the sum of Ten Millions of Spanish Dollars, offered by a commercial house in that city. He has taken his passage in the Lancaster, to sail for Liverpool, in a few days.

Interesting to printers and publishers of newspapers.

A cause has been lately determined in the Marine Court, of the city of N. York, in which Mr. Philips, proprietor of the National Advocate, recovered the amount of a subscription from a Mr. Hadley, who had very regularly received the paper from the carrier, and paid that carrier his new-year's perquisites, but alledged that he had not ordered the paper to be sent. The opinion of the court was delivered by Mr. Scott. It is justice, and we are glad it is law also

DOCTOR CHISHOLM'S
Anti-Bilious Pills,

Of a quality superior to any thing of the kind ever offered as a GENERAL MEDICINE, in this Country.

NOW prepared from a recipe of the celebrated Dr. Chisholm, who, from a long residence in the West-India Islands, has been enabled to favor the world with the most complete history, and most approved methods of curing all the BILIOUS DISEASES of those warm climates.

This extraordinary Medicine, which now for the first time is finding its way into general practice, has properties in the highest degree superior to the mercurial nostrums so frequently recommended by the name of Anti-Bilious Pills. The extraordinary powers of this medicine as a solvent and evacuent of Bile, is without example; never producing debility or injuring the health, in the smallest degree, of the most delicate child or weakly female.

The BILIOUS HEAD-ACHE, so much complained of in this country, and in the neighbourhood of rivers, is often removed by a single dose, which, to a strong man, is only five pills, and to a weakly woman, three. The same dose will generally remove the most excruciating pains of the cholic, like a charm, by abusing the bile to pass downwards in the course of an hour or two.

Two or three Pills taken an hour before dinner, and repeated every third day, will effectually remove those diseases arising from flatulency and indigestion, and by persevering in the use of them for a considerable time, the appetite will be improved, and strength and vigor will return.

Two Pills taken at bed time, with a cup of penny-royal tea, and repeated every second night, will effectually remove Rheumatic pains wherever seated.

A single Pill, taken every fourth hour with a cup of flaxseed tea, will cure Pleurisy, promote expectoration, and relieve coughs and colds.

In CONSUMPTIVE CASES and DISEASES OF THE LIVER, no medicine ever yet discovered, has been known to perform such cures. Two Pills taken every third morning, will be found sufficient, unless costiveness prevails; in which case the dose may be increased according to the strength or constitution.

The Dysentery, Croup, and Summer Complaint on children, are soon relieved by a few doses. A single Pill to a child of 6 years old, and the dose increased according to their strength and age.

In Asthmatic or Phthisical cases, where the laborious breathing & great oppression, with faintings, are fast sinking the patient to the brink of the grave, a few Pills, taking one every hour, with fennel or pepper-mint tea, will often enable the patient to walk about in a few hours.
